

Dear Sirs: Please leave the current law concerning our privacy alone. In the last year or so I have had to deal with unauthorized charges on my charge card bill because someone in my home spoke with a telemarketer. It took repeated phone calls and letters to resolve the charges from two different companies. Since the list is voluntary those of us who do not wish to have our dinners, evenings and so forth disrupted can have that freedom. Anyone who enjoys talking to these people are free to do so.

Sincerely, Lenise Walter
